We are investing in renewable energy — wind, solar and battery storage — to provide the affordable, reliable and clean energy you depend on.

Federal IRA Home Efficiency Rebates now available to qualified Wisconsin residents

Take advantage of rebates to support your home energy projects such as adding insulation and efficient heating and cooling equipment.

Home Efficiency Rebates (HOMES) are now available.

You also may be eligible for other programs, including Focus on Energy rebates and discounts, Wisconsin's Weatherization Assistance Program, and federal tax credits. Go to focusonenergy.com/home-energy-rebates to get the most up-to-date information on program availability and how to find IRA-registered contractors in your area.

Season's greetings

Happy holidays from all of us at We Energies.

Have a bright start to 2025!

Hints for the holidays

We're here to help

Gather with friends and family while managing costs and improving energy efficiency.

Bake in batches: Conserve energy by baking multiple batches of cookies or more than one pie at a time. Prevent heat from escaping by keeping the oven door shut.

Slow it down or speed it up: Slow cookers and air fryers can really help you save. Slow cooking uses a smaller amount of energy than an oven. Air fryers cook food quickly — and can have the added benefit of being healthier by using less oil.

Keep it cool: Turn your thermostat down when cooking and entertaining. There will be plenty of residual warmth from the oven and your guests.

Deck the halls with LEDs: Choose the best options with our holiday lighting calculator. Get started at www.we-energies.com/holidaycalculator.

Bonus tip: Use a timer or smart plug to limit how long the lights stay on.

Stuff stockings with savings: Still need a gift? Gadgets such as smart plugs and LED bulbs make great energy-saving stocking stuffers.
